And it was the person who had played the role of Santa Claus, Mrs. Kathryn Schoch, 37, Dunkirk, N. Y., nurse, who a few hours later turned slayer.

Seven persons, in all, lost their lives in the tragedy, including Mrs. Schoch, who ended her own life after emptying a pistol on the sleeping Dempsey family. One of the victims was slain in Dunkirk before the Dempsey Christmas party.

The dead were:

Snow Predicted For Eastern
Section Of United States
Tonight Or Tuesday

(International News Service)
PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 24.—Riding on the crest of colder weather headed east from the middle west, snow will begin falling in eastern Pennsylvania about noon on Christmas day.

The long-awaited tiding, bringing joy to winter sports enthusiasts spending the holidays in the Poconos and to children throughout this area, was announced this morning by the Philadelphia weather bureau's prognosticator.

Although the snow will not be in time to aid Santa Claus' sleigh, it should be deep enough, the weatherman said, to provide good sledding for "the kids" by nightfall.
New Jersey, Delaware and Maryland will share in the "white Christmas," the forecaster predicted.

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN

FLEMINGTON, N. J., Dec. 24.—Possibility of a delay in the trial of Bruno Richard Hauptmann for the murder of the kidnaped Lindbergh baby loomed today as a result of the disclosure that members of the Hauptmann jury panel of 150 had received through the mail a booklet containing an imaginary story of the trial of a case similar to the Lindbergh case.

The pamphlet was written by Mrs. Mary Belle Spencer, a Chicago lawyer, who characterized it as a satire designed to poke fun at the "asininity" of America's police and court system. She denied the satire was aimed at the Lindbergh case, although the characters in the booklet bore names closely resembling those in the Lindbergh case— (Continued On Page Two)

Mystery Visit Is Made To Cell Of Hauptmann

(International News Service)

FLEMINGTON, N. J., Dec. 24.—While prosecuting officials were investigating an alleged plot today to tamper with the Bruno Richard Hauptmann jury panel, a mysterious visit of two more Sourland Mountain residents to the Lindbergh slaying suspect's cell was revealed.

The pair, a man and woman, between 35 and 40, were taken to Hauptmann's cell in the Hunterdon county jail yesterday, International News Service learned.

They scrutinized the prisoner for more than 30 minutes, studying his movements, listening to his voice and peering intently at his features.

As the pair were leaving the woman shook her head and muttered: "No."
This information came to International News Service from a reliable source, but authorities, when asked about the mysterious interview refused to comment, promising a full statement later.

Calling of a new jury panel for the Hauptmann trial as a result of the alleged plot to influence the 150 talesmen in the panel called to appear at the opening of the trial January 2, appeared possible today.

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Dec. 24.—Christmas ceremonies got under way at the White House at noon today when President Roosevelt received the clerical personnel of the executive offices and present each member with an autographed copy of his second book, "On Our Way".

In spite of the festivities the president was in his office early and his engagement list carried four conferences.

The first brought in Secretary of Commerce Roper and others to discuss the scheduled report on the American merchant marine. Roper was named head of an informal committee to formulate this document, and intends to submit the report in the near future. Other conferences were with Public Works Administrator and Secretary of the Interior Ickes, Chairman John H. Fahey of the Home Owners Loan corporation and Attorney General Homer Cummings.

Receive Staff.
During the afternoon the President and Mrs. Roosevelt received all members of the White House proper, including all servants and chauffeurs with their families. At this reception the Roosevelts presented each kiddie with a toy of some sort and greeted each child personally.

At 5 p. m. the president was to motor to Lafayette Park and press a button lighting the municipal Christmas tree.
Almost every member of the Roosevelt family was here today. House guests included the president's eldest son, James, and Mrs. James Roosevelt with their young (Continued On Page Two)

I'm going to hang my stocking up, I may not get a thing, but anyway I'll see just what the Christmas morn will bring. A bag of nuts, some chewing gum, perhaps a shirt and tie, a good cigar or maybe two, but will I care, no, I, for Christmas means another sock we'll hang close by the tree, and when it's filled the Christmas Day will mean a lot to me. An engine, and a fire truck some blocks and different toys, some books to see, some paints to daub, some things to make some noise, And all day long the floor will look just like a little store, this Christmas is for him you see, the weather's thirty four.

(Special To The News)
BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Dec. 24.—For international wars this lovely Monday morning, we have Russia and Japan; for civil war we have Donald Richberg vs. Hugh Johnson; both wars are rather similar in that there is really a third party mixed up in 'em.

Russia and Japan's argument is over Manchuria and Richberg and Johnson's is over what the Saturday Evening Post can say. Richberg says if Johnson tells the truth about him, he has to prove it and Johnson says that he can lie about him and still prove it.

There ain't nothing that breaks up homes, country and nations like somebody publishing their memoirs.

RUSSO-JAPANESE DISPUTE IS UNSETTLED

Both Claiming To Own Island

Soviet Troops Refuse To Withdraw Except With Full Military Honors

JAPANESE WANT ARMS SURRENDERED

(International News Service)
HARBIN, Dec. 24.—Outnumbered by Manchukuoan troops, the Soviet garrison of a fort on a disputed frontier island today refused to withdraw except with full military honors.

The issue became deadlocked when the Manchus demanded that the Soviet soldiers give up their weapons.

Although anxious to avoid bloodshed, the Red forces insisted that they be allowed to withdraw fully armed until the question of ownership of the island may be determined.

Two more serious incidents, although without any direct link to the Russo-Japanese dispute, threatened today to hamper the almost completed negotiations for sale of Russia's interest in the Chinese railway to Japan's protectorate of Manchukuo.

Police discovered dynamite under a bridge on the C. E. R. line 19 miles east of Imienpo, placed there with the evident intention of blowing up a Japanese troop train due shortly to cross the span.

Three miles west of the attempted dynamiting Manchurian bandits kidnapped the crew and looted a freight train.

FOUR HASTILY WRITTEN NOTES REVEAL STORY

purchase bullets for a certain make of gun. I took precautions of not getting anyone else in trouble because of the purchase.

"Don, my husband, I know will do all he can to defray funeral expenses if he is in a position to do so. He can be reached at DuBois 636-J. Notify Edward Hughes, son of Dr. R. W. Hughes of Glenmore avenue, Dormont, husband of Ruth. "It has been such a struggle for all of us the last four years and death is infinitely preferable. I think, to all the grief and struggle for existence."

Another note told of how she was afraid to take a chance of quitting her Dunkirk, N. Y., job in order to take Jimmy to Florida for his health. Two weeks after her son's death, she lost her position. The shock of losing her job was vividly portrayed in one paragraph.

"I could never, never nurse a brown-eyed boy again and undoubtedly that would have been compulsory at some time or other had I continued my profession."

Third Note
A third note told authorities of the insurance carried by the victims and how the money should be used for funeral and burial expenses.

The fourth note, apparently the last one written, read:

"Oh! Dear God, it's hard to do all this, but I just can't go on any longer. Not to feel my darling boy's arms around me nor hear his precious voice makes living unbearable."

"Ruth and I lived for Jimmy boy. All life seems unbearable to me now. If only I could see him rushing in from school, just to hear his voice again would be heavenly."

"To see Ruth grieving so for our boy and all my own heart breaking makes living impossible. So many people have been wonderfully kind but I cannot live without Jimmy nor can I leave Ruth with all this grief."

"Oh, dear God, I'll be glad when I am no longer on earth. Life is just so meaningless."

All the notes were found on a buffet in the massacre-stricken home.

Tomorrow morning the older people of the White House, including the president, will open their Christmas presents about the wax candle lighted tree on the second floor.

White House work will end today for the president when he leaves the executive offices and goes over to the family quarters. The president will be back at his desk bright and early on Wednesday, however, when he will put the finishing touches to his address to congress.

Mine War May Break Open In Illinois Area

Violent And Bloody Warfare Is Expected To Occur In Mining Region

(International News Service)

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Dec. 24.—A violent and bloody Christmas tomorrow for strife-torn Sangamon county today, as the long dormant mine war threatened to break wide open. Ten cars of a moving coal train were blown off the tracks by a bomb and special policeman was shot and wounded in the railroad yards here yesterday.

County officers were busy rounding up leaders of the progressive miners of America today. For two years the union has engaged in violent warfare with the United Mine Workers of America.

It was possible the union leaders will be held in jail on a blanket charge. In an effort to forestall a renewal of the bloody violence which has marked previous clashes between the labor groups.

CRAZED WOMAN SLAYS SIX, THEN ENDS OWN LIFE

bedrooms of the home of her brother, Mrs. Schuch fired 32 caliber slugs into the bodies of her sleeping relatives whom a few hours before she had delighted with an armful of Christmas gifts.

Reconstructing the crime this morning, police said Mrs. Schuch, a trained nurse bereaved by the death of her own seven-year-old son, Jimmy, six weeks ago, shot her sister, Mrs. Hughes, as she lay sleeping in their Dunkirk apartment Saturday morning.

Then she made the trip to Perryville, ostensibly for a holiday visit. After playing Santa Claus to the four young sons of the Dempseys, to whom she had sent four boxes filled with her own own toys, Mrs. Schuch, police believe, waited until the family was asleep yesterday morning and then began her murderous attack. This done, she returned to her brother's bedside where she quaffed a solution of cyanide.

Tragedy Discovered

The tragedy was discovered when Mrs. Dempsey, blood streaming from a bullet wound in her head, staggered to the home of a neighbor, William J. Held, and collapsed. Held, awakened by the beating on his front door, found Mrs. Dempsey's inert form on the porch.

After taking the wounded woman to a nearby physician's office, Held entered the Dempsey home and discovered the wholesale slaughter. He called police.

They found Dempsey and one son, Walter, Jr., in a second floor bedroom. In the same room, 15 month old David was found dead in his crib.

On the floor beside the bed lay Mrs. Schuch, a blue steel revolver clutched in her outstretched hand. In one pocket of a kimono she was wearing, police found seven bullets for the gun. In the other, pocket they found a bottle of deadly poison one-third gone.

In another bedroom, Robert was found dead in another crib, Thomas was found with two bullets in his back.

Given Sleeping Potion?

Investigators expressed belief that Mrs. Schuch may have administered a sleeping potion to the members of the Dempsey family some time before they retired.

Then, after all were in bed, she apparently retired to the kitchen of the home and sat smoking and writing while she waited to make sure all were asleep. She wrote four notes, each revealing her struggle to keep a grip on herself.

In one note she described the grief over the death of her son. In another she told of insurance policies that would cover funeral expenses, and directed that anything left was to be given to her divorced husband Donald E. Schuch, DuBois, whom she divorced in the spring of 1931.

From Dunkirk, N. Y., came reports that Coroner George E. Blood said he planned to re-open an inquiry into the death of Mrs. Schuch's son who died last November 7 under unusual circumstances.

Lad's Death Mysterious
The lad, after being in good health, came home from school at lunchtime, and three hours later was dead. While at that time the death was attributed to a blood clot on the brain, the coroner said he believed the new developments warranted re-opening of the case.

It was learned Mrs. Schuch had made a request to chief John J.

Warren of Dunkirk police for a permit to purchase a gun there. She had been turned down for "insufficient reasons."

In one of her letters, Mrs. Schuch revealed how she had planned the destruction of her family, telling about going to Buffalo to purchase the revolver and bullets, taking care to involve no one else.

Mrs. Hughes formerly resided in Dormont, a suburb, with her husband, Edward Hughes. They separated about five years ago and Mrs. Hughes had been keeping house for her sister and taking care of her son while Mrs. Schuch was away from home on special nursing cases.

Burial Wednesday
The father and his sons will be buried Wednesday morning. This morning, their five white coffins, side by side were arranged in a semi-circle in the chapel of a Perryville Funeral home.

Meanwhile, the body of Mrs. Schuch lay in state on a slab in the county morgue.

Her divorced husband declined to claim the body.

Chief Deputy Coroner James L. Davidson prepared to have analysis made of the tablets and medicines found in Mrs. Schuch's overnight bag. Authorities seek to determine whether the medicines include drugs or sleeping potions with which the crazed nurse might have drugged her victims before destroying the family.

County Chemist F. C. Buckmaster was to begin the analysis later today.

Believed Slain

DUNKIRK, N. Y., Dec. 24.—Mrs. Ruth Dempsey Hughes, found dead in her bed with two bullet wounds yesterday, was believed by authorities today to have been slain by her sister, Mrs. Kathryn Schuch, crazed nurse who shot and killed five other relatives in a Pittsburgh suburb before taking her own life.

Possibility that a suicide pact existed between the two sisters was being investigated. They lived together and were playing cards in their apartment Friday night. The last time Mrs. Hughes was seen alive, Police said Mrs. Schuch left Dunkirk by taxicab at 8:25 o'clock Saturday morning for Pittsburgh, 260 miles distant.

One of the finest Christmas decorations in the city is that in front of the home of Dr. A. W. Shewman of Englewood avenue, where an illuminated Santa Claus stands forth in a blaze of glory. The decoration has created much favorable comment among those who have seen it.

Eleventh hour Christmas shoppers are having a hard time keeping contact with their children, as Pa Newc noted this morning. Adorning the lobby of the New Castle hospital is a large attractive Christmas tree. The Yuletide ornament is a picturesque sight.

MAY DELAY TRIAL OF HAUPTMANN

names such as "Colonel Limberg," "Elizabeth Gah" and "Colonel H. N. Schwarztupf."

To Ask Panel Discharge

Lloyd Fisher, associate defense counsel, announced that some time today he will ask supreme court justice Thomas W. Trenchard to discharge the entire panel and order a new one drawn. If the justice orders such action taken, it was pointed out the trial—now set for January 2—might be delayed, due to court proceedings that necessarily would precede the drawings of a new panel.

Meanwhile, all circumstances in connection with the distribution of the booklet were being investigated by agents of the federal department of justice and inspectors of the postoffice departments.

Prosecutor Anthony M. Hauck of Hunterdon county announced that one of the pamphlets had been turned over to J. Edgar Hoover, chief of the bureau of investigation of the department of justice at Washington.

While the prosecution regarded the sending of the pamphlets to prospective jurors as a deliberate attempt to tamper with the jury in Hauptmann's behalf the defense was likewise annoyed over the matter.

Hauptmann's lawyers were represented as feeling that the mailing of the booklets is a reflection on the intelligence of the jury panel, and that the act therefore will reflect against the interests of the defendant.

Prosecuting officials were expected to hold a conference late this afternoon at the office of Attorney General David T. Wilentz, in Trenton to discuss the new development.

POST OFFICE HOURS FOR CHRISTMAS DAY

The Christmas Day schedule for New Castle's post office were announced today as follows by Postmaster Richard A. Steen:

Police Check On Fake Calls

City police are making a systematized search for persons who have been making fake telephone calls to funeral directors and taxicab firms in the past week and if the culprits are found they will be punished to the full extent of the law.

Funeral directors have been asked to send ambulances to fake addresses. Taxicabs have been summoned on "emergency calls" to various places in the city where they were not needed.

The latest "fake call" was received by a funeral director Friday night asking him to send an ambulance to a certain home on Valley street. Police are making a thorough check on the calls and expect to make arrests should the practice be continued.

Island Death Mysteries Will Not Be Solved

(International News Service) QUAYAYU, Ecuador, Dec. 24.—The mystery of deaths of five of nine residents on Charles Island, in the Galapagos group, will probably never be solved, Capt. G. Allan Hancock of Los Angeles, indicated today. Bringing with him Frau Dore Koerwin, one of the four survivors, Capt. Hancock arrived in his yacht, Velerio III.

Conversations with Frau Koerwin, who left Germany to go to Galapagos with the late Dr. Friedrich Ritter, and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Wittmer, who remain on Charles Island with their son, threw little light on the tragedies, Capt. Hancock said.

The Baroness Elise Von Wagner and her lover disappeared from the islands; two others were found dead on waterless Marchena Island; Dr. Ritter died of poisoned meat.

Frau Koerwin said she saw little of the baroness, self-styled empress of Galapagos, because she lived six miles from the Ritter menage.

GIRL SCOUTS

TROOP NO. 6

Girl Scout Troop No. 6 met Saturday morning, in city hall. Each girl took a red apple and made a clever Santa with it; making a face of marshmallow, and fur trimmed coat with cotton, using bright red thumb tacks for buttons. Special handicraft work was done; some girls weaving baskets, some shaping tiny colorful bowls from art paper, which will be used for Christmas gifts. A box was packed for a needy family, and a gift was presented to the janitor of the building in which the troop meets. After taps, the girls adjourned to meet January 12, following a vacation over the holidays. JOAN THOMPSON, scribe.

Muskegon Child Dies Of Cancer

End Of Three-Year Suffering Comes For Little Donna Mavis Shaw, Aged Five

(International News Service) MUSKEGON, Mich. Dec. 24.—The Christmas angels sang their song of peace once more today—not because a child was born, but because a child had died.

Christmas has come with an end of suffering for five year old Donna Mavis Shaw. Her life sapped by a cancer of the face, the child died last night, just as the red and green Christmas tree lights were beginning to twinkle in the windows. Death came quietly and almost imperceptibly, ending three and one half years of suffering for the child whose plight touched the heart of the nation.

CHRISTMAS

COMES Christmas Day. What it means to you depends upon your capacity for knowing just as your appreciation of everything else depends upon your capacities. In the man who can not read, capacity is limited by so much. If he learns to read but cannot read music, his capacity still is limited. As he goes on learning, his capacity of knowing is increased and thereby his field of enjoyment is enlarged. Ignorance is not bliss, as it sometimes is misquoted as being. Greater happiness comes to those whose faculties have been prepared to appreciate at their proper values all things in life. So what Christmas Day means to all of us depends upon our capacity for knowing.

There is a Christmas tree in your home. Around it are those passing through some of the happiest moments they ever will know. Do you not envy the experiences of the youngest of the group seeing that tree for the first time? To that little one the tree is an amazing sight. As the years pass it will become less and less amazing but it never will lose its power to give enjoyment. Then, all of a sudden, it will become amazing again when the child of today has become a parent. You, who were children yesterday, are children again today, so know the feelings of all who are gathered around the tree, from the tiniest to the largest, for you have known the experiences of them all. You know how to make all the toys run better than any of them—how infinite your capacity for knowing! You do not reflect upon it, but it exerts its magic influences.

You know there is a Santa Claus—some of the children may look at you knowingly—but, in your heart, you know something they must yet learn. They have been infected by a taint of skepticism that once affected you, but you know, ah, you know. You know there is something mysterious and unseen that is more real than the perceptible—something superior to practical genuineness. You cannot give it words nor define it any more than you can the colors that you are conscious of after you look at a bright light and close your eyelids. They are beautiful colors but they have no actual existence. Yet you see them. For colors the Christmas tree is just as amazing as that, but the children do not see them, because they do not have the same capacity of vision that you possess.

Merry Christmas, visionaries all.

FRANCE FOLLOWS JAPAN

Quite unexpectedly France has followed Japan in denouncing the Washington and London treaties. She has plainly not acted out of sympathy with Japan. Indeed, when Japan asked her to take this action she declined.

What she has done is to let Japan take all the responsibility for ending the agreement. In view of private assurances to American and British delegates that nothing of the kind was intended, there may be a certain lack of faith in the sudden action of the French government, even though it does not materially alter the situation so far as the three Powers are concerned. Neither France nor Italy was much considered in the negotiations preceding the denunciation.

It is easy to understand why France should not have wished to line herself with Japan against the two other greater naval Powers; her own interests in the Pacific are too much involved. What she has done is to take advantage of the denunciation to escape from the obligated parity with Italy. When the life of the agreement ends, she can go her own way in this respect. What is most to be regretted in this is that rivalry in the Mediterranean between the two Latin Powers conceivably may fan to flame the latent bitterness between them.

The United States and Great Britain had every reason to block the Japanese ambition to reach naval supremacy in the Pacific. There is no irreconcilable conflict between France and Italy except so far as they create it.

TENNESSEE THWARTS A MOB

A welcome variation from the uniform role of success attending lynching enterprises is reported from Shelbyville, Tenn., where, for a change, the forces of law presented a determined front, with the result that another mob murder was not added to the shameful record.

Customarily, the law enforcement agencies of states in which lynchings are common merely go through the motions of opposition when the crowds, usually inspired by a liberal indulgence in corn liquor, gather around the jail, demand their victim, take him to the outskirts, kill him and burn his body.

As a rule, the sheriffs and deputies, charged with responsibility for the safe custody of the prisoner, attempt the fulfillment of their duties only in the most perfunctory fashion. As a result of their feeble resistance, another murder is staged.

At Shelbyville, however, something in the nature of an awakened official conscience was encountered. An attempt to storm the court house was repulsed by a withering fire from the machine guns of national guardsmen. Terror reigned, the ancient court house was destroyed by fire and frenzied men terrorized the Negro sections of the city.

But the prisoner was guarded and removed to Nashville, where he will be held to await trial in accordance with the due processes of law. Tennessee has reason for pride in the sternness and effectiveness with which she met a serious threat against her honor as a state.

Some men will succeed, and others get the notion that all of their ill fortune is the fault of somebody else.

With 5,000,000 cars in the country that are not worth as much as the gasoline in their tanks, the automobile industry faces a bright future.

Pennsylvania's new secretary of agriculture will take a pack of hounds to Harrisburg and go fox hunting early in the morning, just about the time, presumably, that farmers are getting along with the milking

I...I...I
WHEN I HAVE a pocketful of silver change, I feel rich, no matter how much I owe. (Just po' white trash, that's all.)

When I was in a hospital after the war, I blossomed out in a swell dressing gown, and a soldier along side said: "Say, boy, you must have been enough-heavy when you bought that...I still think that's a perfect descriptive phrase."

When I'm in the country, I wonder how anybody can ever be content to live in the city....When I'm in the city, I'm satisfied to be there.

I want the doctor to tell me the truth.

Into every parent's life comes the time when one of his children says "you don't UNDERSTAND me!"...and he feels several hundred years old.

Whenever I tell a story I fix it up a little so it will be more dramatic than it actually was. (That's art.)

I say I'd like a quiet life but I know I wouldn't.

In a book I read a reference to "the placid cow."....But cows aren't placid. When I was a boy I had to lead the family cow home from pasture and once she ran away while I had the rope tied around my waist. Since then I have never thought of any cow as placid.

Once upon a time I saved cigar bands for a long time and pasted them on a jar to make a lovely "work of art." (I'm not ashamed, either.)

The best fun in the world is playing with a happy baby.

When I'm driving a car, I don't like other people to pass me. (I'm a bit ashamed of that dislike, but I can't help it.)

When I see the tight rope walked in the circus, I am reminded of human beings doing the best they can on the narrow road of life.

I chew gum, and you can say what you please about the habit.

DEFICIENCY BREEDS ENVY

Isn't it true that those of whom you speak in a derogatory way are those whom you envy in some way? They have achieved something you have long desired.

Perhaps it is their standing in the community that you wish you had.

They have the popularity it is impossible for you to gain.

They talk intelligently about things you don't understand.

They are consulted about matters of which you are ignorant.

They are chosen for civic positions and to fill places on civic boards to which you have never been invited.

Think about it a moment and perhaps you will acknowledge that the foregoing are some of your reasons for "knocking."

If you were asked to furnish a bonafide reason for your distastes of certain people, aside from a personal one, would you be able to do it honestly?

Most of the envy in the world comes from persons who realize they are in some way deficient.

Perhaps you are an exception to the rule, but not very likely.

You either cannot compete or you are unwilling to sacrifice in any way to qualify, all of which is quite too bad.

THE SHEPHERD TELLS HIS STORY

"It was this way," said the shepherd, "we were resting on a hill.

The flocks the grass were cropping, and the night was strangely still.

We were talking of the taxes which Augustus had decreed.

When a bright light fell upon us, light enough so you could read.

And an angel came toward us—yes, an angel shining white—

Sort of spirit-like or ghostly and it gave us all a fright.

"You may laugh, but I am telling just exactly what occurred.

You may say that the other shepherds if you cannot take my word,

But the angel said, 'be quiet, there's no need to be afraid.

It's good news that I am bringing—so to hear it there we stayed.

"Go to Bethlehem," said the angel, "in a manger you will see

A little baby lying born the King of Men to be."

"You may think that we'd been drinking or that loneliness perhaps

Had made us frenzied dreamers and we'd had a mental lapse,

But to Bethlehem we hurried and where we met the stable door

Where we met a man named Joseph and saw Mary on the floor

And she had a little baby with a manger for its bed,

But all I know about it, is that's what the angel said."

Correct this sentence: "When they are twenty-one years old," said the parent, "I have no further desire to boss them."

Salesman: "Well, Bill, I can tell you're a married man, all right. No more holes in your socks."

Store Manager: "No! One of the first things my wife taught me was to darn 'em."

WHY IS IT THAT OPPORTUNITIES LIKE THIS NEVER SEEM TO COME EXCEPT JES' BEFORE CHRISTMAS!

Hints and Dints

Sun sets tonight 4:39. Sun rises tomorrow 7:20.

BETTER MAN THAN THIS HATH NO WOMAN

There was once a woman who wouldn't get married because she had a parrot that swore all morning, a dog that growled all afternoon, and a cat that stayed out all night.

Other people's time don't seem to mean a thing to some people.

The raising of game animals and birds on the prison farms of Pennsylvania is being advocated by a member of the legislature. Well, that would be better than raising so much hell.

A car always knows it is beginning to be old when they quit having dents taken out of the fenders.

It is almost impossible for a man to keep calling his wife darling when she doesn't call him anything but down.

You can talk as you please about our friend, Almeda McPherson, but she has a following of about thirty thousand people on the Pacific Coast who believe in her. Very few people have that many followers.

Do you remember "way back when" you ate your first olive and tried to like it?

"Who is that large, sour-faced woman over there talking so emphatically to?" I asked a man from Snake's Rest. "That," said the man, "is the one great mistake of my life. Her name is Henrietta, but she made mine Dennis."

"Good morning, son," said the census taker. "You seem to be a bright little shaver. Have you any brothers and sisters?"

"Yeah, I got lotta brudders and sisters. There's seven of us boys and eight girls."

"My, my! The stork must visit you often."

"Visit us—H—!! He lives with us!"

It's because Christmas only comes once a year that a man never gets over being timid about approaching the young girl clerk at the lingerie counter.

It is our suspicion that a large number of domestic administrations are now engaged ploughing under one-fourth of the Christmas card list.

Every now and then when I meet a married couple that makes me wonder how in heck the laughing hyena happened to mate with the gentle little lamb.

The wife of a man who had gotten on in the world was asked why she had changed her doctor. "Well," she replied, "imagine prescribing baking soda and mustard plasters for people as rich as we are!"

Butcher: "Do you ever go to a fortune teller?"

Grocer: "No, but I go home every night to a misfortune teller!"

"How nice it must be to work near so many cakes!" exclaimed the benevolent old gentleman to the boy in the bakery. "But don't you ever feel like eating some?"

"Oh, no sir," was the reply. "That would be stealing. But I just gives 'em a lick now and then."

Hiram: "Why do you feed your pigs only every other day?"

Hank: "So the bacon will be streaky."

Window Trimmer: "We haven't enough feathers to cover all this dummy Thanksgiving turkey."

Grocer: "Well, in that case we'll just have to make the best of it." Oldwife: "So your wife uses her can opener only in an emergency?"

To ngwed: "Yes, when the delicatessen store isn't open."

Bligger: "Is it true that wine is made from dandelions?"

Better: "From all I gather."

There are people who think that balancing the budget is sort of a see-saw.

Fable: The driver tooted his horn to call somebody from the house and waited a reasonable time before tooting again.

"How long have you been working in this grocery?"

"Ever since the boss threatened to discharge me."

Then there is the man whose wife cooked his goose because he couldn't afford a turkey for Thanksgiving dinner.

Smith: "How do you like your new cook?"

Brown: "She's been very nice to us. She let us come into the kitchen the other evening."

The World At A Glance

Lower Interest Rate Ordered.
Try To Speed Spending.
Co-operative Commonwealth.Central Press
New York Bureau
235 East 45th StreetBy LESLIE EICHEL
Central Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Dec. 24.—Reduction of the maximum interest rates that banks may pay to depositors may drive some idle money into investment. At least, that is a government expectation. How much, nobody knows.

The federal reserve board directed that 2½ per cent shall be the maximum which could be paid on any thrift and time deposits by banks which have insured deposits—which means virtually all banks.

In New York City, thrift interest rates have been much lower than that for some time—and there has been no decrease in deposits.

Belief is expressed in New York that increased spending may result in smaller communities.

Banks, of course, cannot find safe investments for their funds at rates which will earn money. There is a plethora of money for lending purposes—but the normal channels remain frozen.

Wall Street constantly calls for "the opening of the capital securities market"—meaning a less severe capital securities regulation law.

PASSING IT ON
Some banks, in reducing interest paid on deposits, also have reduced interest exacted on mortgages.

In brief, idle money means lower interest rates all around.

This has been an unusual holiday season in the world of money. Circulation failed to rise to anything like seasonal heights. And check velocity—sometimes called the barometer of prosperity—continued to decline. Yet retail trade increased considerably over last year.

Maybe people and corporations have decided to "lay away" or hoard until personal security or business security becomes more apparent.

The trend is world-wide, except in England—where trade and securities have continued advancing, in an orthodox manner.

POSTAL SAVINGS RATE
Postal savings banks still pay two per cent—but banks are making a determined effort to force that rate down to one or one and a half per cent.

Bankers say the government cannot afford to pay two per cent.

The government manages to pay two per cent by exacting 2½ per cent from banks where it deposits postal savings money.

PREMIUMS COST MORE
Life insurance premiums, also, are rising because the insurance companies can find few profitable investments for their large stores of cash.

The increase in premium rates of the largest life insurance company for 1935 will be 6½ per cent.

AUTO PRICES LOWER?
Automobile prices will not be higher in 1935, even though there are some increases now. Wall Street expects prices to be lower. Cost of parts also may be less.

Henry Ford pointed the way by saying: "It is entirely probable that some of our prices will be lower than in 1934."

Increased labor costs and increased costs of other products will offset larger volume—but automobile sales seem to rise in proportion to reduction of prices.

New Jury List May Be Called For Hauptmann

Alleged Plot To Tamper With Jury Panel Is Reported

(International News Service)
FLEMINGTON, N. J., Dec. 24.—Calling of a new jury panel for the impending trial of Bruno Richard Hauptmann, accused of the murder of Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr., became a possibility today as the result of an alleged plot to tamper with the 150 persons in the jury panel, called to appear here Jan. 2 for the start of the trial.

Anthony M. Hauck, Jr., prosecutor of Hunterdon county, revealed that most of the 150 veniremen had received through the mails a booklet containing an imaginary account of a trial for a crime closely resembling the Lindbergh case. Although the author of the tract, a woman, said in Chicago that it was merely a "satire" and pointed out she never had heard of Hauptmann when it was written in 1932, Hauck regarded it as an attempt to bias the jurors.

While Hauck was saying it was possible that a new panel might have to be drawn, C. Lloyd Fisher of Hauptmann's counsel took the offensive. He sent word from New York that because of the appearance of the pamphlet, he would ask Justice Thomas W. Trenchard in Supreme court today to draw a new jury panel.

Fisher declared defense counsel knew nothing of the booklet but held it is even more prejudicial to the defense as it is to the prosecution. In the booklet, the defendant is acquitted. Although Hauptmann's name of course is not mentioned, names of other principals in the case are thinly disguised.

The booklet was written by Mrs. Mary Belle Spencer, a lawyer, of Chicago, which also is the address of the "Confidential News Syndicate," which is believed to have circulated it.

CHICAGO, Dec. 24.—Mrs. Mary Belle Spencer, Chicago attorney, author of the pamphlet "Number 2310, criminal file exposed, aviator's baby never kidnapped or murdered," expressed amazement today at the statement of New Jersey prosecutors of Bruno Hauptmann that an attempt had been made to prejudice the jury by sending each venireman a copy of the booklet.

The pamphlet was described by Mrs. Spencer as "a satire of ineffectual law enforcement in this country."

She added that she had no knowledge of its distribution to the venire.

This pamphlet is the imaginative court record of the trial of "John Doe" for the kidnapping of the infant son of a famous aviator. It refers to the Lindbergh case only by inference.

In the pamphlet "John Doe's" attorney attempt to prove the infant was never kidnapped, but strayed from home and died of natural causes "John Doe" is acquitted.

Another trop shoot will be held by the Lawrence County Sportsman's association at the Fair grounds on New Year's day, it was announced by Karl Rohrer today. Turkey and chickens will be awarded to the various winners of the shoot.

It will be an all-day event and open to all sportsmen of the county who care to attend. The event will get under way about 9 o'clock and last until dark. There were approximately 200 present at the Christmas shoot held at the Fair grounds Saturday.

Take Inventory Of Young People

Thirty Thousand Included
In Education Survey
In Pennsylvania

SCHOOL RECORDS
CLOSELY STUDIED

(Special To The News)
HARRISBURG, Dec. 24.—The question of how many young people in Pennsylvania should go on for higher education and what and where they should study with profit to themselves and to society seems to be on the road to practical solution.

Thirty thousand school boys and girls have contributed to "An Inventory of Oncoming Youth." Information obtained from the survey will provide for a series of studies affecting practically all levels of education in the state. Characteristics and achievements of the boys and girls, shown by their in-school and out-of-school records, will be used as a basis for determining the adaptability of all young people to different types of further education after their public school days are over.

Nothing just like this educational inventory has been done before in Pennsylvania. A study of this nature was suggested by Dr. James N. Rule, Superintendent of Public Instruction, to the committee on higher education of the State Educational Study Commission. Dr. Ralph D. Hetzel, president of the Pennsylvania State College, is chairman of the committee. This group of thirteen college presidents promptly agreed that such a study would be of great help in aiding young people to find their places in life. Dr. Rule then arranged for Dr. Harlan Updegraff, educational consultant and former president of Cornell College, to conduct the study.

The "inventory" was taken in little red school houses and great modern high schools alike. Between 400 and 500 students in fifty-three colleges in the state, starting in September, recently completed biographical and historical studies of approximately 26,000 public school pupils and recent high school graduates. The records of an additional 4,000 pupils are being studied as LWOP projects.

The hundreds of schools included in the survey were carefully chosen and represent a cross-section of public education in the State. Half of the 30,000 pupils were enrolled in the sixth grade of the public schools in September 1926, a class which was graduated in June 1933. The remaining 15,000 were pupils enrolled in the sixth grade in September 1928, now seniors in high school.

While it will take many months to complete all possible phases of the inventory, early reports indicate that final results should reveal, among other things:

1. What should be done educationally for the different types of youth who have either completed or dropped out of elementary schools;

2. The types of boys and girls for whom additional education (beyond the high school) could be provided profitably;

3. The type, nature and number of various educational institutions and agencies in Pennsylvania through which such education might be obtained, including possible need for Junior Colleges;

4. Material with which to devise an educational program and policy to function as a guide for the immediate future in youth education in Pennsylvania.

presiding. The usual routine was carried out with Mrs. Sankey, Mrs. Catie and Mrs. Booles participating. Bible readings were given and an article on "Beverage Alcohol And The Nervous System" by Mrs. Ada Offutt, Mrs. Genevieve Maxwell, Mrs. Clara McMurray and Mrs. Vida McNulty, occupied the discussion period. Special music was a feature of the program, and an entertaining reading by Mrs. Bertha Shoaff entitled "A Toy for Jack" was well received. "Do I Hate the Liquor Traffic?" was the subject of Margaret Peebles talk.

Three visits to the sick were reported and fruit given.

Eighteen members and one visitor were present at this gathering, which was concluded with the serving of refreshments by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Bertha Rodgers, Mrs. Margaret Boozel, Mrs. Ada Offutt and Mrs. Clara McMurray.

The next meeting will be with Mrs. Charles Brenneman, Wednesday, January 9 with Mrs. Lola Eppinger, leader.

SCOTLAND UNION
The Scotland W. C. T. U. met on Friday afternoon with Mrs. S. A. Leiby, King avenue, with the hostess in charge of the opening devotional which closed with a circle of prayers.

Mrs. Sid Wilson presided over the business period. Mrs. Coates reported that poster and essay contest plans are progressing nicely.

The program subject was "Peace" with Mrs. S. A. Leiby, Mrs. S. Wilson and Mrs. J. D. Pattison taking part. Mrs. W. G. Wilkins gave a reading "Hiawatha's Song of Peace" and Mrs. P. E. Cochran read an article on "This is the land where he should die."

Mrs. Wilkins gave the high lights of the national convention and refreshments were served by the hostess.

WEST SIDE UNION
The West Side W. C. T. U. met Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. T. D. Allen, with the hostess leading the devotionals, assisted by Mrs. E. E. Long and Mrs. Torrey.

The members joined in a Christmas program after hearing reports of prayer meetings in the homes, visits to the sick and gifts to the needy.

Land of fire and ice, of glaciers, volcanoes and hot springs—that is Iceland, colonial dependency of Denmark, situated in the North Atlantic, fringing the Arctic circle. World famous are its hot springs, and particularly Geysir, 60 feet in diameter, which throws a stream of boiling water more than 100 feet high, and has given its Icelandic name to hot springs throughout the world under the spelling "geyser" in English.

Take Inventory Of Young People

Thirty Thousand Included
In Education Survey
In Pennsylvania

SCHOOL RECORDS
CLOSELY STUDIED

(Special To The News)
HARRISBURG, Dec. 24.—The question of how many young people in Pennsylvania should go on for higher education and what and where they should study with profit to themselves and to society seems to be on the road to practical solution.

Thirty thousand school boys and girls have contributed to "An Inventory of Oncoming Youth." Information obtained from the survey will provide for a series of studies affecting practically all levels of education in the state. Characteristics and achievements of the boys and girls, shown by their in-school and out-of-school records, will be used as a basis for determining the adaptability of all young people to different types of further education after their public school days are over.

Nothing just like this educational inventory has been done before in Pennsylvania. A study of this nature was suggested by Dr. James N. Rule, Superintendent of Public Instruction, to the committee on higher education of the State Educational Study Commission. Dr. Ralph D. Hetzel, president of the Pennsylvania State College, is chairman of the committee. This group of thirteen college presidents promptly agreed that such a study would be of great help in aiding young people to find their places in life. Dr. Rule then arranged for Dr. Harlan Updegraff, educational consultant and former president of Cornell College, to conduct the study.

The "inventory" was taken in little red school houses and great modern high schools alike. Between 400 and 500 students in fifty-three colleges in the state, starting in September, recently completed biographical and historical studies of approximately 26,000 public school pupils and recent high school graduates. The records of an additional 4,000 pupils are being studied as LWOP projects.

The hundreds of schools included in the survey were carefully chosen and represent a cross-section of public education in the State. Half of the 30,000 pupils were enrolled in the sixth grade of the public schools in September 1926, a class which was graduated in June 1933. The remaining 15,000 were pupils enrolled in the sixth grade in September 1928, now seniors in high school.

While it will take many months to complete all possible phases of the inventory, early reports indicate that final results should reveal, among other things:

1. What should be done educationally for the different types of youth who have either completed or dropped out of elementary schools;

2. The types of boys and girls for whom additional education (beyond the high school) could be provided profitably;

3. The type, nature and number of various educational institutions and agencies in Pennsylvania through which such education might be obtained, including possible need for Junior Colleges;

4. Material with which to devise an educational program and policy to function as a guide for the immediate future in youth education in Pennsylvania.

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 24.—With dozens of outdoor Christmas trees brightening the night skyline of the film capital and its neighboring hills, Hollywood is celebrating its happiest Yuletide since the depression.But, in the general rise of fortunes, the stars are not forgetting those whose luck has not improved.With quick generosity, the Hollywoodites are moving to the aid of Erich Von Stroheim, who, several days ago, told the city prosecutor's office he had only $11 in the bank and, when an outstanding check came in, would be $2 overdrawn.John Considine, Jr., read the story and immediately began contracting men in the industry for whom Von Stroheim has worked in the past. Their Christmas present to the director, who once was called the greatest genius of the screen, will be a handsome one.Then, there is that seven-year-old youngster who sells magazines outside the Columbia Studio. His film friends found out his parents' being on the county charity. So Jack Holt is giving him a complete new outfit, other employees have raised a cash fund and still others are providing for a Christmas tree and turkey dinner.And Vic MacLaglen, who doesn't want it known, gave 6,000 pounds of turkey to the Assistance League to distribute to needy families.

The public library of New Castle wishes to all its friends and patrons a merry Christmas and a happy New Year.

The library has had the privilege of welcoming many new patrons in the last few years. Some who were formerly busy or not interested have discovered the library as a place to read, to consult reference books and to borrow books for entertainment, handicraft, armchair travel or culture. All of these as well as patrons of long standing, the library desires to serve to the limit of its resources.If the library can aid in giving any one more knowledge of his work, his times, the lives of his fellows past and present, more amusement, deeper culture, it will justify its existence.And so your public library expresses its active desire that all its patrons, actual and potential, may have a joyous Christmas and a New Year of abundant life.

Nearly 12,000 In National Guard In Pennsylvania

Recruited Almost To Complete Strength, U. S. Reports Reveal

By ARTHUR C. WIMER
Special Washington Correspondent
New Castle News

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 24.—According to the annual report of National Guard Bureau Chief, Major George E. Leach, the National Guard seems to be more popular in Pennsylvania than the nation generally.

General Leach reported that on the last day of the 1934 fiscal year, the Pennsylvania guard was only under authorized strength by 185 men, or about 1.5 per cent. The guard in the country as a whole, on the other hand, was below authorized strength by 2.5 per cent.

Actual strength of the Pennsylvania guard on June 30 was 11,860 officers and enlisted men as compared with the authorized mobilization of 12,045. The Keystone State units had 840 commissioned officers, 13 warrant officers, and 11,007 enlisted men as compared with authorized strength of 900 commissioned officers, 13 warrant officers, and 11,132 enlisted men.

According to General Leach, amounts obligated and expended under appropriation for the 1934 fiscal year in the interest of the Pennsylvania troops totaled $1,469,943. Of this amount $76,625 was for uniforms, and $24,292 was for ammunition. Army pay drill to the Keystone State guardsmen totaled $375,171.

Mental Department Of County Home Now Caring For 213 Patients

(Special To The News)

MERCER, Dec. 24.—The Mercer County Home and Hospital for the Insane is caring for 333 inmates at the present time, which exceeds all previous records by three. This is within seven of the total number which the institution is permitted to receive.

In the mental department there are 213 patients, leaving 120 indigent cases in the home department. A number of the cases in the mental department are full pay cases; some are semi-pay cases, while the majority are strictly indigent cases.

The health at the home is exceptionally good when the nature of the majority of those in both the home and the hospital is taken into consideration.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Stickle visited in Pittsburgh recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Warner, of Cleveland, visited recently at the home of Catherine Stickle.

Ford Wimer, who had his hand mangled a few weeks ago, still remains in Grove City hospital.

Miss Steckel, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Stickle and Mr. and Mrs. Warner visited Joe Minter, an uncle of Mrs. Warner, of Mt. Jackson.

Miss Patterson, Bernice Dean, Ray Hunt, and Donald McCracken, presented the play, "Who Ate the Candy" at Princeton on Tuesday evening at the high school. Jesse Hunt, sang at the same performance, with the guitars.

AROUND CITY HALL

Police chronology for 24 hours ending at 3:30 p. m. December 23, 11 arrests on charges as follows: Drunkenness 11 parking violation 1, speeding 1, drunkenness and disorderly conduct 2, drunkenness and suspicion 1, and disorderly conduct 1.

Police officials here are holding their fingers crossed in the hope that the record earned so far during the Christmas shopping season can be maintained until the stores close tonight. To date only two purses have been rifled and only one hold-up has been reported. The total loot did not total $50.00.

Mayor Mayne was agreeably surprised when he conducted police court Sunday, as it had been expected that many persons would indulge in intoxicants too much for their own good Saturday night. In nine of the 11 cases, intoxicants played a part in their arrest, but this was considered a small number.

When council convenes formally in the city hall today it is planned to introduce the appropriation and tax levy ordinance for 1935. The budget as tentatively set is $394,998.79, of which $397,579.00 will be needed to pay for running the city in 1935. The total tax levy will be 11½ mills.

All city employees will have a day off Christmas excepting those whose service is vital to the protection of life and property.

Local Option Vote Effective January 1

(Special To The News)
MERCER, Dec. 24.—Although the voters of six boroughs and nine townships in Mercer county voted "dry" at the last election, only nine liquor and beer licenses will be discontinued, according to records in the county treasurer's office here.

The citizens of Fredonia, Grove City, Jamestown, Sandy Lake, Sheakleyville and West Middlesex voted against the sale of beer and liquor, as did the townships of Cool Spring, Delaware, French Creek, Lake Liberty, Sandy Creek, Sandy Lake, Wolf Creek and Worth.

Liquor licenses, very few of which are held in the political units mentioned above, will expire January 1, and this, of course, will eliminate the sale of beer where it has been dispensed under the permit to sell whiskies and other hard liquors. Beer licenses do not expire until June 1, at which time license holders in the dry areas will have to close up shop insofar as legal brew is concerned.

Lindbergh Aided Science By His Arctic Flight

Germes Collected On Slides Attached To Plane Are Great Aid To Scientists

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 24.—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh was acclaimed by the scientific world today for experiments resulting in proof that air currents carry germs thousands of miles and sometimes from continent to continent.

The experiments were made in cooperation with Fred C. Meier of the department of agriculture during Lindbergh's great circle flight in the summer of 1933.

Germes Collected
A "skyhook" which carried glass slides coated with petroleum jelly was attached to the plane and exposed to air during Lindbergh's flight from the American mainland and Denmark by way of Iceland and Greenland.

The microorganism collected on 26 slides indicate that pathogenic organisms such as those causing plant diseases may be carried for thousands of miles by air currents, Meier said.

Hunt For Mals To Be Extended

Philadelphia Area Is Thoroughly Combed By State Police And Others

DESPERATE KILLER ELUDES CAPTURE

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 24.—Montgomery county, scene of the William Weiss kidnapping, one of the numerous crimes attributed to Robert "Killer" Mals, today again became the focal point of the widespread hunt for the fugitive desperado.

Underworld informants, it was learned, have supplied tips to police and federal agents tending to support the theory that Mals is "hiding out" somewhere in the adjacent county where many of Philadelphia's wealthiest business and social leaders reside.

Mals Eludes Police
Armed with sub-machine guns, state police and U. S. postal inspectors raided a liquor-selling establishment in Norristown yesterday in the hope of capturing the escaped convict and killer.

But again Mals eluded the grasp of the law, which seeks him for the killing of two officers in a Richmond, Va., jailbreak, the kidnapping and supposed murder of "Big Bill" Weiss, gambling king; two thefts of arms and ammunition from as many Pennsylvania armories, last week's $48,500 payroll holdup in Philadelphia and other offenses.

Christmas Brings Laughlin Divorce

Court Grants Decree From Cora Elma Laughlin On Adultery Grounds

In a decree handed down by Judge R. L. Hildebrand at court this morning, R. Glenn Laughlin, of North Beaver township, is granted a divorce from his wife, Cora Elma Laughlin, on the grounds of adultery. Under the decree Mrs. Laughlin is prohibited from marrying James F. Montgomery, with whom the adultery is alleged to have been committed.

In a somewhat lengthy opinion Judge Hildebrand finds that the couple were married in June, 1924 and lived together until June 7, 1934. On that date it is found that Mrs. Laughlin took their little daughter and went away with Montgomery. They went to Harrisburg where it is claimed that they lived for a time in an apartment, consisting of a kitchen, bed room, and bath room.

It is further found that when Montgomery left home he told his wife that he was going to Warren, O., and would be back the next day. He failed to return.

Attention is called to the fact that in her reply to the libel in divorce Mrs. Laughlin did not specifically deny the allegation of adultery. Neither did she do so at the hearing in the case. From these facts it is pointed out that the court is warranted in believing as true the testimony offered by the libellant.
At the hearing in the case respondent tried to show that the libellant has been guilty of adultery. Judge Hildebrand finds that this claim was not sustained by the testimony.

Former Local Youth Executive Producer Of Big Film Company

EDITOR'S NOTE: Many residents of New Castle will remember Pandro Berman, who lived here for nearly nine years when a young boy. His father at one time ran the Economy Shoe store. Pandro started with RKO Pictures at the very bottom and now holds the responsible position of executive producer with RKO. His brother is with him in the same company. Only two months ago Pandro's mother visited New Castle and was a guest of Mrs. Marcus Feuchtwanger, who is an old friend of the family. The story below comes direct from Pandro Berman to The News thru the request of M. D. Cohn, manager of the Penn theatre.

PANDRO S. BERMAN

(By PANDRO S. BERMAN)
I suppose it's no exaggeration to say that all small towns are fundamentally alike, whether they be in Europe or America. Even an African village, I am sure, resembles in its essentials an American village. For this reason—the fact that small towns all have something in common—I believe New Castle may find itself deeply moved and stirred by "The Little Minister", which is set in the small Scotch town of Thrums. Not that New Castle is a small town any longer. It just so happens that it was a small town when I lived within its limits. Thrums, the town in the picture, may also have grown since Sir James M. Barrie wrote his masterpiece about it. But neither New Castle nor Thrums can have lost that indefinable something which differentiates the small town from the big city, that quality of living which is the full-blown strength and sweetness of life.

In making "The Little Minister" I continually found myself asking, "Will this picture strike fire in the hearts of those who have lived in small towns, or towns which once were small?" There was only one way in which I could find an authentic answer and that was by remembering New Castle when New Castle was small. And that remembrance, taking me back not so many years, told me that the picture would undoubtedly find its finest appreciation in settings similar to its own.

The reason, of course, is obvious. The people of Thrums, as depicted by Barrie, are the people of all the small towns of the world, people whose joys and sorrows are tremendously magnified by the very simplicity of their lives, people whose problems, whose loves and hates, take on a grandeur and a glamour never to be found in the rush and hustle of big cities. It is one thing to live in the forests, nature made of trees; it is quite another to live in the forests man has made of buildings.

I think New Castle will like "The Little Minister" however, not alone because of its wholesome atmosphere and idyllic love story, but because of the remarkable performance turned in by a cast which loved the picture from the moment the script was read. Katharine Hepburn, as Babbie, reaches the highest point she has thus far attained in her rise toward enduring fame. John Beal, in the title role, plays the Little Minister with a mas tree to receive gifts for which names had been drawn previously. Boxes of candy were also given at that time to each pupil from the teachers. The party was sponsored by the Hi-Y and Tri-Hi-Y clubs of the school and was thoroughly enjoyed by all.

BASKETBALL GAMES

Little banks are safe now. They can't lend too much money on farm land when the government already has a mortgage on it.

On Court House Hill

Vigilance of William Haering, night watchman, has prevented the theft of any more bulbs from the Christmas trees on the court house lawn. It'll be just too bad for anybody tampering with the trees.

Under the will of the late Annie E. Reed, property at 401 N. Cedar street, seventh ward, is left to her niece, Ruth L. Schweer as a reward for tender care of decedent during her lifetime. Two brothers, Clyde B. McCready of this city and Frank D. McCready of Sharon, are left the residue of the property. Herbert G. Costes is named as executor.

Register and Recorder, William R. Hanna, chairman of the Democratic county committee, has completed arrangements for taking Democrats to the inauguration of Governor-Elect, George Earl, at Harrisburg, January 15th. Mr. Hanna has chartered pullman cars on the Pennsylvania railroad, as many of them as needed. These cars, when they arrive at Harrisburg, will be sidetracked within a few blocks of the capitol building, so that they can be used as sleeping quarters during the ceremonies. The train will leave here on Monday, at a time announced later, and will remain in Harrisburg until the following Wednesday.

G. C. Denniston of Ellwood City has been added as a party defendant in an action in trespass brought by Maybelle D. Ringer of Ellwood against the Penn-Ohio Coach Lines, for the death of her husband, Harry M. Ringer. The accident in which Mr. Ringer met his death occurred on the New Castle-Youngstown road, January 13, 1934, a short distance east of the Ohio state line. Denniston was returning home from Youngstown about 9 p. m. In the front seat with him was Harry Ringer. Two other friends were in the back seat. The Denniston car skidded and stopped crosswise of the road. It was struck while in nieces Byrd Pearson and Edith Blackwood, also Dorothy McClymonds, a daughter of Howard E. McClymonds. The latter is also named as executor.

In the estate of the late Robert S. Bryan, J. M. Wigton of Butler county, presented a petition in court, asking that a decree of confirmation of the administrator's account be opened, as to a disbursement made to Leona Bryan. Wigton's claims to have had a judgment against the estate, and as he lived outside the county, had no knowledge of the appointment of the administrator in time to file his claim. The bulk of the property was awarded to Leona Bryan, an adopted daughter of the decedent. Judge Chambers granted a rule on Ernest Stewart, the administrator, to show cause why the decree should not be opened. Rule is returnable January 7.

Mrs. Perry Snyder, matron at the county home, has her hands full getting ready for a Christmas dinner for 176 inmates. Preliminary work, such as decorating, has already been done. Four Christmas trees spread good cheer at the home. One of them is in the office and the other three are in various parts of the buildings. The inmates have taken a great interest in these trees and have been eager to assist in decorating them.

The menu which Mrs. Snyder has prepared will compare favorably with any Christmas dinner to be given in homes of this city. It will include roast chicken and gravy, mashed potatoes, cranberry sauce, celery, fruit cake, doughnuts, apples, oranges and dessert. Some idea of the amounts of each necessary can be gained when it is stated that two bushels of potatoes will be required for the meal. For ordinary meals from a bushel and a half to a bushel and three quarters of potatoes is usually the quota, but it is expected that everybody will be saving up for the big feed, and it would be awful to run out of mashed.

Superintendent Perry Snyder has been pretty busy, too, getting the home in shape for the big holiday, but it is Mrs. Snyder that has the real responsibility of the Christmas dinner, and we don't know anybody who can do it any better. Here's wishing Mr. and Mrs. Snyder and their 176 guests a merry, merry Christmas.

Asks $30,000 For Death Of Wife

(Special To The News)

DECEMBER 24.—Patrick Joseph Hanlon of Sandy Lake has brought suit in county court against Robert S. Kerr of the same place to recover $30,000 damages for fatal injuries sustained by his wife when struck by a car alleged to have been driven by Kerr.

Hanlon, in his claim, states that on October 21, 1934, his wife was walking along the berm of route 62 in Sandy Lake, and when Kerr attempted to make a curve he came across the road, onto the berm, where he struck Mrs. Hanlon. And that as a result of injuries which she sustained she died November 3.

The husband states that he is 67, and that he was supported by wages made by his wife.

Many Gifts For Roosevelts From Citizens Of U. S.

Volume Of Mail And List Of Gifts Heavier Than Last Year, Is Reported

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 24.—President Roosevelt's Christmas mail is running even heavier than last year.

More than 6,000 packages and cards were received at the White House Saturday, and this total is increasing hourly.

A large force of clerks has been busy constantly sorting the packages and checking the mail.

Almost every conceivable type of gift has been received. There were dozens of crates of grapefruit, oranges and other citrus fruits.

Ship models galore—always favorites with the President—have come in.

Nine turkeys already have been received, many ducks and pheasants. One ambitious hunter, Henry Bridges, of the Woodmont (Md.) Rod and Gun Club, sent the President a buck deer.

Other presents included canes, dolls for the children, wood carvings and artistic bric-a-brac.

Obeying the law isn't enough. There was no law on the books so forbid what Judas did.

Margiotti Wins In Stock Suit

Jury Awards Attorney-General
Designate Sum Of $3,- 000.18 By Verdict

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, Dec. 24—Charles J. Margiotti, attorney general designate, emerged victorious today in the suit brought against him by Goodbody and Company, New York brokerage concern, to recover $32,601 they alleged was due them from stock market transactions by Margiotti.

After several hours deliberation a common pleas court jury returned a verdict Saturday night which awarded $3,000.18—the sum Margiotti contended the plaintiff company owed him from stock operations—to the Pittsburgh and Punxsutawney lawyer. The chief point of defense had been that the brokerage firm failed to comply with Margiotti's instructions to sell out his account in 1931 and countered testimony of the plaintiffs with claims the Goodbody firm owed the defendant $2500 for an investment, plus interest since July 1931.

The New York firm is expected to appeal the decision.

Lawrence County Farms And Farmers

By H. R. McCulloch, County Agent

4-H BOYS AND GIRLS PREPARE FOR SHOWING

Ten counties having 4-H Baby Beef clubs and six counties with 4-H Lamb clubs are preparing for the state farm show at Harrisburg January 21 to 25.

Since only 60 per cent of the baby beebes and lambs in these clubs can be accommodated in the farm show building, eliminations are being conducted in the counties. Those which have had round-ups are: Chester, Cumberland, Dauphin, Lancaster, Lawrence, Lebanon, Lehigh, Mercer, Montgomery and Northampton. Others are Center, Clinton and Washington. Counties having both baby beebes and fat lambs this year, Centre, Clinton and Washington counties have only lambs, while Chester, Cumberland, Lancaster, Lawrence, Lebanon, Mercer and Montgomery counties have baby beebes.

With about 40 per cent of the animals eliminated in the county round-ups the 4-H boys and girls will have 100 baby beebes and 168 lambs in one of the most outstanding exhibits of its kind in the country.

Lawrence county exhibitors will be Albert McConnell, Washington township, Agnes Peebles and Hannah Peebles of Scott township.

MANY DECORATIONS MAY BE USED FOR CHRISTMAS

During the Christmas season the use of decorative evergreen boughs, cones, and berries should be considered for exhibition in the face of the keen competition which will be met at Harrisburg.

Attractive wreaths can be made with very little effort. These include simple wreaths made of such materials as Balsam fir boughs, spruce or hemlock boughs combined with pine or spruce. Attractive wreaths can be made of a combination of pine and juniper boughs. The fruiting bodies of climbing roses can be dipped in brightly colored paint and secured to the boughs by means of small pieces of wire.

Table decorations can likewise be made in a very inexpensive manner by using a small, round cardboard ice cream container of the pint size in which small holes have been punched. The box may be covered with crepe paper or tinfoil of an attractive color. Surrounding the box can be placed such small twigs of evergreen as juniper or hemlock. A decorative candle can be placed in the center of the table decoration or a series of three candles can be placed in appropriate candlestick holders which are to be covered by the evergreen clippings. The candles should be tall so that when they are lighted there is no danger of fire since the evergreen boughs in becoming dry may be burned.

Long strips of willow can be fastened in a circular form by pieces of wire on which are attached twigs or small branches of the evergreens. A heavy piece of green twine or fine wire can be used to attach these pieces of evergreens and other decorations to the willow form. A small ribbon can likewise be attached after the design has been completed and the home-made wreath is then in readiness to be fastened to the window or door.

During the Christmas season small plants, such as Pteris ferns, oxalis, sempervivens, small leaved English ivy, echeveria, sedums of the tender type, and small plants of sansevieria, can be used for decorative effect at Christmas parties. These small plants can likewise be used for gift purposes.

Of the larger and more unusual plants which can be used for Christmas gifts are pink or white poinsettia, lantana, echeveria, Christmas cactus, bouvardia, euphorbia, orange and white begonia.

Evergreen trees, such as Irish juniper, arbutus, pine, red cedar, spruce or any other evergreen suitable for transplanting in tubs, can be used for outside decoration during the Christmas season. Many nurseries and other firms which carry Christmas supplies have such items for sale. The use of live trees is not a new one. Use these trees later in the garden as specimen plantings or if several are purchased they may be used for grouping purposes.

FINE APPLES WILL BE SHOWN AT HARRISBURG

An apple crop of unusually high quality will be represented at the state farm show in Harrisburg January 21 to 25, when Pennsylvania growers meet to exhibit their products.

With a liberal premium list to stimulate interest, real competition is expected in the 44 listed varieties and 13 classes. The types of exhibits will be varied as in previous years and will comprise plates, diamonds of 16 apples, trays, boxes, bushel baskets and barrels.

Most coveted of the individual prizes is the State Horticultural association cup which is awarded to the exhibitor of the best bushel of apples in the show.

In the county horticultural association exhibits, which consist of 22 bushels from each of the competing counties, the Gabriel Heister award is the special prize. Selection of the winners is based on the number of members exhibiting and the score of winnings in the several classes.

Commercial barrels and bushels represent an unselected sample of the growers' pack, put up to meet the requirements of U. S. No. 1 grade. These classes were first offered at the 1930 show and have attracted steadily increasing interest. Fruit showing disease, insect or mechanical injury should not be considered for exhibition in the face of the keen competition which will be met at Harrisburg.

Experienced exhibitors have found that early selection, special care in handling, and the use of cold storage are distinctly worthwhile features of the preparation.

WOOL FABRICS PRODUCE WARM WINTER CLOTHING

Buy wool for warmth, urges Miss Eleanor Drury, home economics extension representative. Heavy, board-like wool fabrics are not so warm as light weight, porous ones. A knitted garment covered by a tightly woven one which will act as a wind-breaker is a warm combination.

Fine, soft wool fibers make more attractive fabrics and cost more but they do not wear so well as the coarser, more sturdy ones. Rough textures of mingled colors wear well. Cotton is combined with wool in many fabrics to decrease cost. These mixtures shrink differently when wet, Miss Drury reminds.

Trade agreements in some industries, for example, underwear and blankets, require that the percentage of wool be labeled on the article. Look for such labels, Miss Drury urges. Most authorities agree that at least 25 per cent of the fiber in a wool and cotton mixture should be wool, or it will have none of the qualities of a wool fabric.

Many wool fabrics are made with a nap or a pile. A pile fabric has extra yarns standing out from the foundation cloth so that the surface of the fabric is really made up of the ends of these yarns. They must be close together, very firm and strong, and also well fastened into the foundation of the cloth because they receive the surface wear given the fabric. In judging such a fabric, bend it until you can see how close the pile is. Rub the surface so as to get an idea of how firm and durable it will be. See if the pile yarns pull out easily from the fabric, Miss Drury directs.

Napped materials, on the other hand, are made by weaving extra, loosely woven yarns into a fabric and then brushing it until the fiber is pulled up from the yarns to form a nap. If the fibers are not long and well twisted into the fabric, the nap will wear off quickly, and leave bare spaces. When buying such a fabric hold it between yourself and the light and notice if the yarns are close together and the fabric firm or if it looks sleazy and loosely woven.

MAYOR SENDS TWO DEFENDANTS TO JAIL

John Royowski, who faced Mayor Wayne yesterday on a charge of drunkenness and disorderly conduct, growing out of an alleged assault on his wife, was sentenced to pay a fine of $25.00 in default of which he was sent from police court to the county jail.

Walter Jenkins, who lives outside the city, was charged with having picked up a tie in a store and faced the mayor on a charge of drunkenness and suspicion. He was committed to jail for 10 days on a charge of drunkenness in default of a $10.00 fine.

And it is easier for a camel to go through the eye of a needle than for a rich man to enter the kingdom of friendship.

FOUR DIE IN LEETSDALE AUTO-BUS CRASH

Auto Crashes Into Big Bus

Two Girls, Young Man And Boy, All Of Ambridge, Are Victims

FOUR CHILDREN IN HOSPITAL ALSO

(International News Service) PITTSBURGH, Dec. 24.—Fatally injured in an automobile crash when their machine collided with a Chicago-bound bus, two girls, a young man and a boy, all of Ambridge, lay dead at their homes today.

In addition, four children were injured, three of them seriously, in the accident, which occurred Sunday at suburban Leetsdale.

The dead were: Mary Kotys, 18; Mike Margo, 21; John Dobranski, 14, and Mary Dobranski, 18.

The injured children, all taken to Valley hospital, included three brothers and a sister of the dead Kotys girl. They were:

Mike Kotys, 14, lacerations of the head; Anna Kotys, 11, bruises and shock; Mike Kotys, 15, lacerations of the head and possible back injuries; John Kotys, 12, fractured leg.

Two Killed Instantly.

John and Mary Dobranski were killed instantly when their light machine crashed into the bus and was demolished. Mary Kotys died an hour after the accident while Margo succumbed to his injuries 10 minutes after admission to the hospital.

Police reported there were no witnesses to the accident. Pending an investigation, the bus driver, Cecil M. Baldwin, 26, Toledo, O., was held by police. Baldwin and one passenger suffered the only injuries of those riding in the bus. They received lacerations.

According to Baldwin and several of the passengers, the automobile, driven by Margo, suddenly rounded a curve in Beaver road on the wrong side of the highway. Both drivers swerved their machines to avoid the crash, and the two machines collided head-on.

Russia-Japan Trouble. More Public Ownership. A Mouse By The River. Our Money Is Good. By ARTHUR BRISBANE

ASSOCIATED PRESS sends from Tokyo news that may be serious. A Tokyo newspaper says the Japanese have burned Catholic church buildings, following rumors of military spying. And Russian infantry troops from Siberia, invading Manchukuo have been caught in a trap. Japan says Russians had begun storing military equipment on Japanese territory.

All this may be adjusted amicably. The Japanese are wise, but more "incidents" of this kind might start the war that seems bound to come. Russia borders on Japan's Manchukuo. Japan beat Russia last time, as Germany beat the French the first time.

Perhaps Russia will have a return match, and allow the United States to go on solemnly counting its pile of gold, instead of building airplanes and submarines it needs.

MAYOR LAGUARDIA, of New York, taking public ownership of light and power production seriously, has named a board of fourteen to build a plant to light the city's streets and public buildings, unless the big "Consolidated" light and power companies become disgusted or frightened and decide to sell out to the city.

THE PUBLIC OWNERSHIP idea is spreading. Elizabeth, N. J., appoints a committee to study municipal light and power. Cities own and distribute their own water supply, which once was done privately. No body objects to that, water is a necessity of life—but if the cities take them over, they must pay a fair price, no confiscation.

THE CHINESE proverb, very old, tells you:

"All birds can roost but on one branch."

"A mouse can drink no more than its fill from a river."

Mice and birds know that, with no Chinese to tell them. Some great financial minds do not know it, hence our troubles.

Big U. S. A. financial birds have tried to roost on one hundred branches at once, scattering over the country innumerable surplus factories. That is what industrialists call "rounding out."

And our great financial mice, no bigger really than other mice, have tried to drink up the whole Mississippi of national wealth. In 1929 some of their little stomachs exploded with a bang and the country still feels the reverberation.

GREAT BRITAIN wants America to help the French franc and the arrangement is called "bringing the franc into accord with the dollar." Why must we bother about the franc or pound sterling, or zloty?

Some like gold money, some like paper money, some like silver money. We have more than eight billion dollars worth of gold, one thousand millions of it accumulated since last February.

We can easily get enough silver to sink a thousand ships and heaven knows we have paper enough.

Whether it be gold, paper or silver, we HAVE IT, so why bother about the money of other countries? And, what is most important, the kind of money we have will buy anything in the United States and that means anything you want.

THERE WILL BE a merry Christmas in the White House, with four big Christmas trees. Do not imagine, however, that President Roosevelt is imitating the theatrical gentleman who produced Uncle Tom with four Topsy's. There will be two big trees outside the White House, to cheer the public that looks through the fence, one tree for those that work in the White House, and one for the Roosevelt family.

On Christmas Eve the President will read Dickens' "A Christmas Carol" to his grandchildren. They will nudge each other and say: "Keep quiet, grandpapa LIKES to read that."

FIFTEEN MORE arrests in Leningrad. Accused of murdering Sergei Kiroff, two prominent Russians, Gregory Zinoviev and Lev Kamenev, arrested by Stalin's personal order, are said to be on their way to the firing squad. The Russian government announces its intention to "vine its enemies from the face of the earth." In that process it may make a dangerous number of enemies for itself. Kill is easy for anybody in these days of cheap weapons.

ORDINARILY in New York saloonkeepers must close their bars and stop selling liquor at 4 in the morning of January 1. Arrangements have been made to allow bars to keep open all night, to end the year drinking at 4 in the morning seemed too great a hardship, so the authorities charge $10 for permission to keep open all night. Cheap enough.

Ladies and gentlemen who sit up drinking until 4 o'clock in the morning will explain to you that "one must have a little pleasure, at least ONCE a year."

BLAKE wrote:

"I will not rest from mental fight nor let my sword rust in my hand 'til I have built Jerusalem in England's green and pleasant land."

OGDEN L. MILLS, once Secretary of the Treasury, has raised a finger in warning and will not lower it until he has built sound money and reconstructed the Republican party in Uncle Sam's green and pleasant land. He thinks vast inflation is near, because people will get sick of buying short term federal interest-bearing bonds and he fears that business and labor may lose their liberty. Labor will not lose its liberty, Lloyd's will insure everybody against that.

THE GIGANTIC French automobile concern, "the Society Andre Citroen," has gone on the rocks and may never come off. Twenty thousand skilled French workmen are threatened with idleness, but the French government, wise, says it will not undertake to run the great plant.

The French called Monsieur Citroen, "the Henry Ford of France." It is easier to be known as "Henry Ford" than to be Henry Ford.

HAMAS-SCHMELING SIGNED FOR FIGHT

By DAVIS J. WALSH International News Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Dec. 24.—Not wishing to spoil the old gentleman's Christmas but, from all I am able to learn today, Mr. Charley Harvey, the All American accident, is never going to get out of Germany with that $25,000 he expects to collect for the Hamas-Schmeling fight in March.

Of course, the old gentleman feels that he has outwitted the German government by arranging to have the promoter, one Rothenburg post the money in a Paris bank, the money to be deposited before Charley and his fighter leave America.

This, according to the most reliable of advices, means that Charley and his fighter won't be leaving America at all. In other words, there just won't be any prize fight.

Looks Like Joke

The point is that the Standard Oil Company and other corporations of prestige and influence, both here and abroad, have been quite unable to persuade the Germans, that, while they have made their money on German soil, they'd like to spend it elsewhere.

It, therefore, doesn't exactly stand to reason that a little American prize fight manager with a wistful manner and a low comedy mustache can succeed where the Rockefeller failed.

I believe that Promoter Rothenburg has given his assurances to Mr. Harvey about that posting of the money outside the country after talking to the man who knows the man who used to know the minister of sports. There is only one man in Germany worth talking to about that, the latter being Dr. Schacht, the minister of economics whose importance has risen with the price of the mark.

Dr. Schacht's regime has been entirely predicated upon his ability to keep German money completely for Germany and the Germans and so it is unlikely that he will change at this time, even if he wanted to, which, I am assured, he won't. If, they tell me, quite impossible for a financial mind of this type to conceive of letting a prize fighter take 65,000 marks back to America at a time when the German government isn't yet paying the interest on its bonds.

Now If Santa Would Only Be Able To Fill All Of These Stockings

From Montreal to Malay and from Medicine Hat to Midway Island the world will be in tune tonight. Whether the language is American, Japanese or Portuguese the same thing dominates the mind of the world this afternoon for tonight is the night to hang up your stocking. Call it a sock if you care, but anyway this is the night to hang it.

Whether it is a pair of your Aunt Maggie's comfortable cotton hose or a pair of the baby's anklets makes no difference. From out of the nowhere a gentleman will arrive to fill up the socks and everybody's hoping.

Here in Lawrence County the public officials will be hanging up their socks in the hope that Santa won't overlook them. Mayor Charles B. Mayne wants a new city hall and is hanging his sock at the corner of Mercer and North streets.

The directors of the city library are hanging their socks at the same spot hoping the old gentleman will drop a public library in their joint and several socks. Somebody is bound to be disappointed.

Councilman D. O. Davies wants an elevator in the present city hall to carry old ladies up to the third floor and the same old ladies are hoping council fixes an office up on the first floor so they won't need the elevator.

County Commissioners P. O. Elder, A. E. Conner and F. R. Woods are ready to hang their socks on the court house tower, hoping Santa will drop a new court house in. The last word from the north was that he was fresh out of court houses but had a couple of spare vaults he could bring if the commissioners wanted them.

The members of the school board would like a nice fresh budget with no headaches, one that would permit them to reinstate the shops, the swimming pools and gymnasiums without any increase in taxes.

Several prominent lawyers are hanging up their socks in the hope that Santa will drop a judgeship in them, and a couple of score of prominent citizens will be satisfied with a county commissionership in theirs. Or a councilmanship, treasurer'ship or what have you?

Secretary Alfred W. Chilton of the Chamber of Commerce has an extra large sock ready to hang just the size to fit a canal up the Beaver and Shenango Rivers. County Treasurer W. O. Pitts will be satisfied with a trap shooting gun that will break 25 out of 25. After a little dicker he would accept one that would break 24 out of 25.

All the rest of us are wanting things nearly as large as some of the requests named above and will wake up on Christmas morning satisfied with what we get.

Anyway tonight's the night to hang up the stockings large and small, hang them on the mantle or the radiator or the chandelier. Hang them on the ice chest or the newel post but hang them somewhere. It's an old custom, Spanish, French and English. And don't let them kid you, there is a Santa Claus.

Old Age Pensions Run Into Delay

No Old Age Pension Payments In Pennsylvania Until January 2, Is Report

(International News Service) HARRISBURG, Dec. 24.—Pennsylvania's indigent aged faced a bleak Christmas today as hope for the payment of the first old age pensions in time for the Yuletide holiday went glimmering.

Officials had hoped the pensions would be paid this month but the procedure of investigating thousands of applicants made that impossible. Gov. Clifford Pinchot will make the first old age pension payments to residents of Philadelphia and Pittsburgh at ceremonies here January 2.

Old age pensions, paid from profits of the State liquor stores, were enacted at the special session of the legislature in December, 1933.

CHRISTMAS DAY

Love's the landlord of the heart And he welcomes every guest, Setting all the rooms apart For the ones he deemeth best.

Cometh some the night to stay And their names are Dance and Song, Wealth and Pride and Pleasure gay And they make a merry throng.

To an ill with lights aflame And with Mary at his side Once the troubled Joseph came. But admittance was denied. And the landlord in the gloom Of the stable sheltered them, Just because he had no room For the Babe of Bethlehem.

Landlord Love, 'tis Christmas Day And the winds of winter chill! Shall we let Him in or say That our hearts are crowded still? (Copyright, 1934, Edgar A. Guest)

Former Middleweight Champion Will Tackle Cleveland Contender

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 24.—Vince Dundee, former middleweight champion, and Paul Pirrone, the Cleveland bomber, have been signed to fight ten rounds in the arena here January 14, promoters announced today.

The winner of the battle, the promoters said, is assured of a titular engagement with Teddy Yarosz of Pittsburgh, recognized as the current middleweight champion by virtue of his recent victory over Dundee.

The Pennsylvania athletic commission last week sanctioned a Dundee-Pirrone fight as an elimination bout to determine the rightful challenger for Yarosz' crown.

CHRISTMAS SHOPPING

The baseball meeting resulted in no major trading. Hitler is stealing our prize fights, the football authorities are alarmed at conditions that happened some years ago, and the good tennis players are all turning professional. Now Christmas Eve is here and nothing has been done about it.

Perhaps, they are all waiting for some Yuletide aid; certainly there are some in the sports world who need it. Everything tried so far has been to no avail so a little of the Christmas spirit may help to fill the following orders.

Notre Dame—A center that can back up the line and cover passes into the flat like Jack Robinson used to do.

Huey Long—A nationally prominent coach who can develop a championship football team and at the same time be willing to take orders from the Senator of Louisiana.

Madison Square Garden—Another Tex Rickard is necessary if boxing is to regain its prestige. We thought we had all the fighters sewed up but Hitler has been guilty of over-emphasis lately while our matchmakers have been guilty of somnolence.

Cincinnati Reds—Johnny Mize to play first base.

Chicago Cubs—Likewise.

Pittsburgh Pirates—A right-handed outfielder, second baseman, and catcher.

Babe Ruth—A baseball club to manage.

Jimmy Dykes—Some baseball players to manage.

Princeton—A good football schedule.

Basketball—Uniform interpretation of rules.

The Deans—Nothing, we're good as is.

Knox College—One more defeat and then we'll have the record to ourselves.

Track and Field Fans—Adoption of the American system of measurement at all meets in the United States so that we will not have to take a metric scale to the events.

Buddy Baer—More push-overs.

Max Baer—Hollywood.

Cornell Will Build Up Team

Cornell Will Grant Scholarships To Football Stars With Reservations

(International News Service)
ITHACA, N. Y., Dec. 24.—Better football material for Cornell, once a power on eastern gridirons, was assured today by action of the committee on athletic control last night in leaving the door open for the granting of scholarship to athletes provided that "character and brains remain the primary considerations."

While reiterating Cornell's traditional opposition to "buying" football material, the committee issued a statement which indicated a definite change in policy. The nub of the committee's restatement of the university's football stand was:

"If, by cooperative efforts, within alumni organizations, small scholarship funds become available, the committee feels there is no reason in the ethics of the situation why such scholarship benefits should not be extended to men with athletic ability, provided only that character and brains remain the primary considerations."

Responding to the challenge of Bill Bonthron, Princeton miller and 1,500-meter star, Glenn Cunningham, above, says he "thinks perhaps he will run" in the meet opening the indoor season in the east, the Knights of Columbus games in Brooklyn, Jan. 5. Cunningham is doing graduate work at University of Kansas.

Willie Thomas, aged 12 years, of Sciota street, was brought to the Jameson Memorial hospital Sunday afternoon, where he received treatment for a dislocated shoulder, received when he fell while playing about the B. and O. grounds on South Mill street.

Marcella Compiles 1934 Sports Record

Crowds At Various Athletic Events Are Bigger Than Past Years

According to a record compiled by Fred Marcella, South Mill street sportsman, the year 1934 was a successful one in regards to independent junior sports in Lawrence county.

Much more enthusiasm was shown by the athletes. The crowds during the past year were larger than those which witnessed the different athletic events in the past years, Marcella stated. During the 1933-34 floor season, the Gersons captured the Independent title. Rivalry was keen among the various quintets which competed. The Catholics again demonstrated their well known prowess on the basketball court by capturing the Junior championship.

In the Church League circuit, the Sacred Hearts came through with flying colors. Mushball, which is becoming a great sport among players as well as fans, proved most exciting. The National Radiator representatives topped the remainder of teams in the city, winning their second straight title. The Catholic club took the Junior pennant.

The county sandlot title went to a strong Bessemer nine. The Clifton Flats baseball team, which every year produces a powerful team, won the Independent title.

The gridiron season, which closed recently, saw the Ryantown team on top in Independent circles while the Croton Juniors earned the Junior championship.

Following is a list of 1934 winners in the various sports, as compiled by Mr. Marcella:

1933-34 Basketball
Gersons—Independent league.
Catholics—Junior league.
Sacred Hearts—Church league.

Baseball
Bessemer—County league.
Clifton Flats—Independent league.

Mushball
National Radiators—Independent champs.

Office, Finishing Win Shelby Games

Bar Mill Quint Defeated By Office 36-28 In Fast Game Saturday Night

MECHANICALS ARE STUBBORN FOE

ELLWOOD CITY, Dec. 24.—Office five turned on the steam in the last quarter to defeat a stubborn Bar Mill 36-28 at the Shelby Auditorium in an inter department league game Saturday night. In the second game of the evening the Finishing passers duplicated the feat of the Office by staging a last quarter rally to win over the Mechanics 38-31.

The Office got off to a good start by having a 9-4 edge over the Bar Mill at the end of the initial stanza. The Bar Mill came back strong in the ensuing period and outplayed their opponents 9-6 to make the count at the end of the half read 15-13 for the Office. The game was played on a more or less even basis in the third quarter. In the final chapter the Office launched a clever offensive, which resulted in a 36-28 victory. Bud Kimes and George Patterson were the big guns for the victors, accounting for 12 and 11 of their team's points respectively. Follett and Swick were best for the losers.

Finishing cagers had their hands full with the Mechanicals. They were quite taken back by their determined resistance, and found themselves trailing 10-8 at the close of the first period. Finishing put on added effort and gained a point on their opponents, to have the score at half-time read 16-15 for the Mechanicals. The play was fairly even in the third quarter. It took a fast last quarter rally to gain the 38-31 victory. Willie Justine, Bob Frew, Tommy Barnes and Lasso starred for the winners. Reese and Tomel held the limelight for the Mechanicals.

Games Tonight

Two postponed games will be played off this evening. In the first game the Office will meet the Inspection and in the second, the Mechanical will play the Cold Draw.

Ellwood To Mark Christmas Holiday

Church Organizations And Phalanx To Sing Carols; Children To Hang Up Socks

ELLWOOD CITY, Dec. 24.—The advent of Christmas will be conspicuously marked in Ellwood City. This is not only the day of days for children but grownups as well. The city is in the grip of the holiday spirit. Everyone seems to find a little extra to spend for this day. The city was swamped with shoppers the entire day Saturday and constituted quite a traffic problem for the local police department. All the stores seemed to be doing a brisk business.

Hearts as well as pocketbooks are loosened up for this occasion. Organizations and clubs will be busy this Christmas eve distributing baskets of goods to brighten up the home of some needy families. Various church organizations and the Phalanx club will go about the city this evening singing Christmas carols. The entire town is in a blaze of colored light. There is a beautiful community Christmas tree, stately decorated, on the Central school lawn. Many homes about the community have decorated and lighted trees in their front, which brings out a beautiful effect.

This is the day that children look forward to and never forget. Once again they will hang up the traditional stocking and endeavor to catch Santa as he comes down the chimney. But usually the sandman gets them first. Christmas Day will be marked by the traditional exchange of gifts.

Japan Delays Formal Treaty Denunciation

Japanese Ambassador Will Wait Until Wednesday To Extend Formal Notice

By KINGSBURY SMITH
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Dec. 24.—American observance of the birth of Christ today stayed the serving of Japan's sentence of doom on the international naval treaty designed to help maintain peace on earth and goodwill toward men by ending naval rivalry among nations. Japanese Ambassador Hiroshi Saigō was in possession of instructions from Tokyo to deliver to the state department formal notification to terminate the Washington naval treaty, the cornerstone on which was laid the basis of world naval limitation.

Action Delayed

However, as a gracious gesture towards the state department officials who were engrossed in Christmas thoughts or preparations the envoy decided to wait until after tomorrow before carrying out his instructions. Ambassador Saigō received Saturday the instructions which seal the doom of the Washington naval treaty. He at first contemplated delivering the formal notice of denunciation to the state department this morning but upon learning that some of the state department officials already had left for their homes on Christmas leave and that others hoped to get away this afternoon, he decided to wait.

Under the terms of the treaty, the United States is duty bound to inform immediately the other signatories if one power serves notice of denunciation.

East Brook Road Home Is Damaged

New Castle Firemen Check Blaze—Services Are Much Appreciated

Fire from a defective flue Saturday afternoon caused about $150 in damage at the home of Jacob Kreitzer of the East Brook road. Neighbors rushed to the scene when the fire was discovered and aided in getting out the furniture. No furniture was damaged due to the kindness of the neighbors and the fire loss was kept down to the level it was through the efficient work of the fire departments of New Castle, Central and Croton answered the alarm.

Mr. Kreitzer and his family expressed their appreciation today of the splendid work of the New Castle firemen and the neighbors who carried out the furniture. The loss of $150 is covered by insurance.

Butler High Coach Writes To Santa

Could Use Bag Of Hex Powder When We Play New Castle Says Regis Heinzer

The following letter to Santa Claus appeared in the Butler paper Saturday and is of especial interest to the New Castle High football and basketball fans. The letter reads—

Dear Santa Claus: I would like to have a bag of hex powder to use this winter and next fall. For years I have been trying to get my boys to beat New Castle but it seems it can't be done. Last fall the team might have won but we ran out of power a minute before the game was over and we tied them. On the basketball floor, things are just as bad. So if you have a sack of that special powder just put it under the Christmas tree. Thanks Santa. REGIS HEINZER.

Research Workers Plan For Session

Scientific Progress Of 1934 Will Be Flashed Before 3,000 Prominent Scientists

(International News Service) PITTSBURGH, Dec. 24.—Scientific progress in 1934 will flash before more than 3,000 outstanding research workers gathering here Thursday for the annual winter meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science. Approximately 1,000 papers and addresses, headed by that of Albert Einstein's "an elementary proof of the theorem concerning the equivalence of mass and energy," will be presented during the convention which adjourns January 2. Einstein's paper will be presented before an invited audience of 400 mathematicians.

New discoveries in infantile paralysis research, the mechanism of heredity, heavy water and heavy hydrogen, the uses of sulphur in the cells of the human body and other rays were scheduled for discussion. The new Mellon Institute for industrial research will be opened for the first time to the "man in the street" during the sessions when exhibits by almost 100 scientific organizations and companies will be on display.

Practically every important scientific society in the nation will participate in the convention.

Earle Inaugural To Keep Custom

HARRISBURG, Dec. 24.—Following precedent, the committee arranging for inauguration of George F. Earle, announces the governor-elect probably will ride to the Capitol January 15, in an old Victoria. Pennsylvania's governors for years have ridden to the inauguration ceremonies behind prancing horses. The committee announced automobiles and buses are barred from the parade which will follow the ceremonies and that floats must be approved before being assigned position. Units which intend to parade must obtain permits through application to the county Democratic chairman.

Total facilities in Harrisburg are practically sold out and arrangements are being made for sleeping accommodations in private homes.

Democrats Ready To Take Up Reins

(International News Service) HARRISBURG, Dec. 24.—Democrats in the state house of representatives today were prepared to end their half-century of service as a minority and assume control of the lower chamber on New Year's day when the 1935 legislature convenes.

Rep. Wilson G. Sarig of Temple, veteran Berks county legislator, will be elected speaker. He was unanimously nominated by the Democratic majority in caucus here Saturday. Frank W. Ruth of Bernsville, Sarig's Berks county colleague, was chosen floor leader; William P. Gallagher of Wilkes-Barre was selected chief clerk of the house, and Rep. Harry N. Boyd of Greensburg will be "legislative whip," principal aide to the floor leader. The Democrats began a drive to shrink the payroll of more than 100 per diem employees of the house. As the first step it was decided to

Spinster Found Slain In Home

Death Results From Intoxication And Exposure, Coroner Potter Finds

ELI SAARI, aged 64 years, a resident of the County Home died early this morning in the home. He was a former resident of Bessemer, but has been at the County Home since 1931.

According to the information received by Coroner Potter, Saari had been drinking during the day and had fallen down in the mud in the field in back of the home. Several of his cronies at the home, unable to rouse him, went out and carried him into the boiler room about 2 o'clock this morning. He died shortly afterwards.

Superintendent Perry D. Snyder was not apprised of Saari's death until he arose this morning, after which coroner Potter was notified. Death was evidently due to intoxication and exposure, the latter stated.

"State Paganism" Decried By Pope

Statement Interpreted At Attack Upon Mexican Government For Church Action

(International News Service) VATICAN CITY, Dec. 24.—In a statement interpreted generally as an attack upon the Mexican government's program of social reform and its campaign against the Catholic church, Pope Pius today decried the existing "state paganism."

Replying to Cardinal Granito Di Belmonte, head of the college of Cardinals who had conveyed the season's greetings in behalf of the college, the Pope declared: "Humanity now has a great need for a return to the Savior, particularly now when strong currents are active against religion. It seems incredible that after nineteen centuries of Christianity someone should proclaim a moral and social state paganism."

(International News Service) NEW ORLEANS, La., Dec. 24.—Bernie Moore, track coach at Louisiana State university, loomed today as the probable successor of "Biff" Jones as head football coach at the ole war school.

Moore, formerly coach of the Mercer college eleven, came to Louisiana State in 1929 with Russ Cohen, and developed the track team which two years ago won the national intercollegiate championship.

FAIRPORT, O., Dec. 24.—Two men were burned to death or drowned late Sunday afternoon when fire destroyed the fishing tug Della L. of Barcelona, N. Y., in Lake Erie, a mile off North Perry, east of here.

Automobile Kills Erie, Pa., Youth
(International News Service) ERIE, Pa., Dec. 24.—Tragedy brought an end today to the festive spirit of Yuletide preparations in the Beierschmitt home here as 9 year old Henry Beierschmitt lay dead.

Returning home from rehearsal of a Sunday school Christmas play the lad was struck down by an automobile and died a short time later.

In his hurry to reach home, it is believed, the boy did not see the machine, and ran directly into its path.
